 - (v) the international and domestic anti-money laundering and counter-terrorism laws.
- (c) Each dealing between you and us is also subject to the provisions of the relevant Confirmation issued by us and if there is any conflict between these General Conditions of Trade and those provisions, the provisions of the Confirmation shall prevail to the extent of the inconsistency.
- (d) Dealing in securities outside Australia are subject to the laws, rules, customs, usages and practices, including taxation, of the country in which the dealing is transacted, either in whole or in part.
- (e) You acknowledge that the Confirmation is issued subject to:
 - (i) the Rules, directions, decisions and requirements of the Market Operator;
 - (ii) the customs and usages of the market; and
 - (iii) the correction of errors and omissions.
- (f) When you provide us with an electronic address ('email address') you authorise us to dispatch electronic Confirmations to your email address in respect of your dealings. It is your responsibility to ensure that your email address is operational and available for receipt of electronic Confirmations issued by us and to advise us of any change to your email address as soon as practicable after the change is made.

- (g) You further acknowledge that, at our discretion, we may:
 - (i) provide you with access to a standing facility (Standing Confirmation Facility), through which you can obtain or view an electronic version of a Confirmation;
 - (ii) issue paper based Confirmation to your postal address in lieu of electronic Confirmation at your email address, or in lieu of a Standing Confirmation Facility; or
 - (iii) substitute electronic Confirmations with a Standing Confirmation Facility by giving you notice in accordance with this agreement.
- (h) If you do not wish to use the Standing Confirmation Facility, or you do not want to receive electronic Confirmations at your email address, you must notify us either in writing or through a facility provided by us.
- (i) We may issue a further Confirmation if the previous one(s) contained any errors or omissions and, in this event, the further Confirmation shall supersede the previous one(s) in all respects.
- (j) Unless stated otherwise, all Confirmations for the sale or purchase of securities outside Australia will be for your account in the currency of the country in which you have chosen to deal. You agree that you will bear the foreign exchange risks of trading including, but not limited to, the risks of cash held, of dividends or other income payments received, of expenses or other liabilities incurred and of exchange controls or other laws that prohibit or impose costs on transfers of securities, cash or accounts held outside Australia or denominated in currencies other than Australian dollars.
- (k) Each dealing between you and us is also subject to the Trading Rules at the time of dealing, and if there is any inconsistency between these General Conditions of Trade and the Trading Rules (as set out in clause 5), the latter shall prevail to the extent of the inconsistency.
- (l) You consent to your order being matched with an order of another client or an order we place as principal. Where your order is matched with another client order, we charge brokerage on both orders. We do not charge brokerage for the portion of your order that is matched with a principal order.
- (m) In the event that you appear to be a Proscribed Person, we will not be responsible for any loss, damage, liability or costs incurred by you where we are unable to receive or act on your instructions.

4.3 Your commitments

- (a) You represent that at all times during your dealings with us you will be in a position to meet all your commitments and obligations arising from these dealings.
- (b) You represent that when you wish to sell shares, you own those shares and that they are available for delivery, and when you wish to buy shares, you will have sufficient funds to pay for those shares at the time the order is placed, and at the time the order is settled.

- (c) Where you have a margin lending account, you acknowledge that you are liable for:
 - (i) all settlement obligations irrespective of whether your margin lender is able to deliver sufficient securities or funds to satisfy your obligations;
 - (ii) any over-sold positions on your account; and
 - (iii) the payment of monies owing on your account irrespective of whether the margin lender will advance you those monies.
- (d) You agree that we may debit any of your accounts, or any margin lending facility, with monies that you owe us, eg unpaid settlement obligations.
- (e) You acknowledge and agree that:
 - (i) we are entitled to cancel or reverse a dealing or order without further reference to you where a Market Operator has recommended or required cancellation or reversal for market integrity reasons, or where the market was operating under an error, or where the cancellation or reversal is permitted under Market Operating Rules;
 - (ii) the Market Operators may be entitled under Market Operating Rules to require cancellation or amendment of a dealing or order;
 - (iii) if you or a signatory appears to be a Proscribed Person, then we may immediately refuse to process or complete any transaction or dealing of yours; suspend the provision of a product or service to you; refuse to allow or to facilitate any of your assets held by us to be used or dealt with; refuse to make any asset available to you or to any other proscribed person or entity; or terminate these arrangements with you. We will be under no liability to you if we do any or all of these things. Our rights under this clause are in addition to all other rights we may have; and
 - (iv) if we exercise our rights under sub-clause 4.3(e)(iii) you must pay us any damages, losses, liabilities, costs or expenses that we incur in relation to any action taken, including without limitation administrative costs and/or costs of sale or purchase of any transaction or deal put in place for the purposes of meeting our obligations under these General Conditions.
- (f) You acknowledge that we do not give personalised advice or make personalised recommendations and that it is therefore your responsibility, before ordering the purchase or sale of any securities through us, to assess and evaluate the proposed transaction in light of your financial situation, investment objectives and particular needs.
- (g) You acknowledge that as soon as you become aware of an error or omission, you are responsible for taking necessary action to mitigate further loss within 24 hours of receipt of notification.
- (h) You acknowledge that time is of the essence in dealings with us.

4.4 Market information

- (a) You acknowledge that:
 - (i) we make the market information we display on a Futu Platform (Market Information) available to you only for your personal use;
 - (ii) third parties who provide data, such as other Market Operators, may assert proprietary interests in the Market Information;
 - (iii) the accuracy, timeliness or completeness of the Market Information is not guaranteed by us or any third party; and
 - (iv) we may in our absolute discretion terminate or suspend your access to the Market Information at any time without notice to you.
- (b) You must not make the Market Information available to any other person or company, in any manner, including by way of downloading, copying, reproducing, adapting, publishing, selling, or distributing the Market Information, without our express written consent, which we may grant with or without conditions.
- (c) You must not procure or assist another person or company to do an act prohibited by sub-clause 4.4(b).

4.5 Your instructions

- (a) We will only act within the parameters of your instructions.
- (b) If you are a body corporate, you acknowledge that we reserve the right at any time to request a guarantee from all or any one of your directors in such form as we may reasonably require relating to your obligations under these arrangements.
- (c) We are not obliged to accept any application or instruction to trade, nor are we obliged to provide you with reasons for refusing your application or instruction to trade. If we consider it is in our reasonable interest to do so, we may decline to act on your behalf in relation to any particular dealings, without explanation or advance notice. Additionally, we may decline to act on your behalf:
 - (i) where the original instruction is more than 20 business days and is not reconfirmed at that time;
 - (ii) where the basis of quotation for the security has changed and the order has not been reconfirmed;
 - (iii) where the security has been subject to a trading halt and the order has not been reconfirmed;
 - (iv) where the Market Operator has purged the order from the Market Operator's trading platform;
 - (v) where we believe the transaction would result in no change of beneficial ownership;
 - (vi) if there are insufficient funds in your account to complete the application or instruction;

- (vii) where we believe the transaction would have the effect, or is likely to have the effect, of creating a false or misleading appearance of active trading in any securities or with respect to the market for, or the price of, any securities; or
 - (viii) where we believe the instructions are ambiguous, incomplete or unclear.
- (d) If more than one person constitutes the Client, then they are jointly and severally bound by these arrangements and we are entitled to act upon the instructions of any one of those persons.
- (e) We are entitled to assume that any instruction received from your individual Client ID and password originates from You or the authorised representative to whom the Client ID and password is assigned and that such instruction is a valid instruction to access the services. We are not obliged to inquire into the validity of any such instruction received.
- (f) You acknowledge that we are not responsible for missed market opportunities during the time it takes us, acting reasonably, to follow our internal procedures or the procedures of share registries or product issuers.
- (g) You acknowledge that we will make all reasonable attempts to enter your instructions to buy or sell securities as quickly as possible. However, should delays be experienced:
 - (i) in connection with the number of participants or persons attempting to participate in the market at a point in time;
 - (ii) due to verification or authorisation processes; or
 - (iii) due to delays resulting from call waiting time or adherence to internal procedures,we will not be liable for any claims for lost opportunity.
- (h) You acknowledge that we will make all reasonable attempts to effect any instructions to cancel or amend orders as quickly as possible. However, should an order be filled prior to a cancellation or amendment instruction being effected, you will be obliged to accept the transaction(s) on the original terms. Whilst all reasonable attempts will be made to inform you when the order is filled prior to an amendment or cancellation instruction being effected, we are not obliged to do so.
- (i) You acknowledge and accept that there may be delays in processing between the time an amendment or cancellation instruction is dealt with by us and the time the amendment or cancellation is effected on market. In the event an order is filled between the time it has been 'approved' by us and the time we effect the instruction on market, you will be obliged to accept the transaction on the original terms.
- (j) If you are uncertain as to whether your order has been received you will make all reasonable attempts to verify whether the order has been received, approved and effected prior to taking any further action. You agree to issue specific cancellation or amendment instructions with respect to an existing order and not to attempt to effect such changes by placing a second or duplicate order. You will be solely responsible and liable for any duplicate instruction that you place.

- (k) You acknowledge that we are not liable to you for any loss you incur under a share purchase plan due to a seller or buyer or their broker failing to complete a transaction in accordance with the rules or procedures of the market, the clearing facility or the settlement facility.
- (l) If you purchase on market a holding of rights for a security that is traded separately to the security, you acknowledge that we automatically exercise those rights on your behalf unless you tell us not to exercise them.
- (m) In the course of processing a sell order for a security, we may remove your holding of the security from the register before the due date for settlement under the Market Operating Rules.
- (n) If, in our reasonable opinion, we believe there is a dispute between us about an order or instruction you have given us, for example, the number of shares you have asked us to buy, or the bid price for shares, we may take, without prior notice to you, any action which in our reasonable opinion we consider necessary to close any open position the subject of the dispute, for example, by selling shares.
- (o) You acknowledge that, due to market conditions, we may complete your order by multiple market transactions, across multiple markets and you authorise us to accumulate those transactions on a single Confirmation and specify the volume weighted average price for those market transactions.

- (d) You acknowledge that we may pay money that we have received for you into a trust account, for example, if we cannot effect payment into your nominated bank account, and that we retain any interest earned on such money.

4.10 Acceptable settlement methods

We accept payment for settlement by deduction from your account, direct debit from your nominated settlement account, BPay or from your margin lending facility. We do not accept cheques as a method of payment for settlement purposes.

4.11 Failure to settle

5 Trading Rules

5.1 Trading Rules

- (a) We accept orders from registered clients on the Futu Platforms. Orders must comply with the trading rules set out in this clause 5 (Trading Rules) unless Schedule 4 (Australian Share Trading Rules) applies.
- (b) When an order is received that does not comply with these Trading Rules, we will endeavour to notify you. However, you are ultimately responsible for revising your order. We will not be held responsible for any loss that may arise when an order is not accepted.

- (c) These Trading Rules apply to all dealings between you as a client and us. We reserve the right to vary these Trading Rules at any time. Any such variation shall apply to any dealing by you after it takes effect and your continued use of a Futu Platform is an acceptance of the variation.
- (d) You should be aware that different Trading Rules may apply to the different Futu Platforms and different markets, and it is important that you understand the different Trading Rules when trading on the different Futu Platforms. In addition, you need to understand that not all features or order types are available on all Futu Platforms and we will notify you of this fact either in these Trading Rules or on the specific Futu Platform itself.

5.2 Limit Orders

- (a) A limit order is an order to buy or sell specified units of a security at a specified price or better.
- (b) A limit order will not be accepted, without any advice to you, if we consider the limit price to be too far away from the prevailing market price of that stock.
- (c) Limit orders can be amended or cancelled provided the order has not already been executed.
- (d) It will be your responsibility to manage any unfilled portions of your order.

5.3 Market Orders

- (a) An 'At Market' order is an order to buy or sell specified units of a security at the current market price at the time the order is given.
- (b) We will use best endeavours when executing your 'At Market' order but cannot guarantee precise execution as to the price specified by guidance provided by us at order entry.
- (c) We will place your 'At Market' order instruction for execution only when:
 - (i) trading for the particular stock is in continuous match mode;
 - (ii) trading for the particular security is not suspended or halted; and
 - (iii) placing the order will not contravene our obligation to maintain an 'orderly market'.
- (d) 'At Market' orders cannot be accepted on the Futu Platforms:
 - (i) outside of market hours; or
 - (ii) when trading in a particular stock is halted/suspended.
- (e) 'At Market' orders can be rejected at our discretion.

5.4 Buy Orders

- (a) Buy orders can be placed for securities on the Futu Platform.
- (b) In some circumstances, a deposit may be required before your order is sent to market.
- (c) Unless otherwise advised, we provide each account with a limit. Part of this limit can be used for non-leading stocks.
- (d) If your order exceeds the limit, then a deposit may be required before your order is sent to market. The notional deposit amount is calculated by reference to:
 - (i) whether you are buying a leading or non-leading stock;
 - (ii) the market value of the order; and
 - (iii) other open or unsettled buy orders.

5.5 Sell orders

- (a) We do not accept short selling orders.
- (b) If selling Issuer-sponsored stock, it is your responsibility to ensure that details of the holding are correct and that there are sufficient units available for settling the trade.
- (c) Sell orders may not be accepted if:
 - (i) there are insufficient units available for settlement in your account; or
 - (ii) incorrect details of the holding are supplied.

5.6 General

- (a) Except as provided for in clause 4.5(c), a limit order if not cancelled or executed earlier is valid for:
 - (i) Exchange Traded Funds – either for that trading day by the end of trading hours (Day order) or up to 90 days (Good till cancelled order); or
 - (ii) Shares – either for that trading day by the end of trading hours (Day order) or up to 90 days (Good till cancelled order).
- (b) An order received after market closing time will be submitted to the exchanges on the next trading day.
- (c) In the event of a change in the basis of quotation of a stock (e.g. the stock going ex-dividend), your outstanding order could be purged by the Market Operator prior to the expiry date.
- (d) We reserve the right to take such steps as we consider necessary to check the bona fides of any client, order or instruction before acting on that order or instruction.

5.7 Additional rules

- (a) At any time, FUTU AU may allow access to additional services through the Futu Platform including:
 - (i) Initial Public Offerings ('IPOs'); and
 - (ii) Fund Subscription Services.
- (b) Where IPO investments or Fund Subscription Services are available, you agree to be bound by the terms set out in Schedule 1 or Schedule 2 (as applicable) in addition to the terms of this agreement as amended from time to time.

6 Conditional Order Instruction

6.1 Conditional order instruction

- (a) We accept, administer and implement a Conditional Order Instruction, or a variation or cancellation of a Conditional Order Instruction, in accordance with the terms and conditions set out in this clause 6 – Conditional Order Instruction (Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions) unless Schedule 4 (Australian Share Trading Rules) applies.
- (b) Conditional Orders may not available on all Futu Platforms through which you can trade.

6.2 Definitions

Conditional Order Instruction means an instruction you give to us on a Futu Platform to place an order for a Security on the market:

- (a) when the Trigger occurs; and
- (b) at market price or at a price in accordance with the Limit.

Limit means the minimum price at which we are instructed to sell, or the maximum price at which we are instructed to purchase, the Security under your Conditional Order Instruction.

Security means a security or securities for which you have placed a Conditional Order Instruction.

Trigger means criteria that are acceptable to us, which you nominate for your Conditional Order Instruction, which, when satisfied, causes us to place an order for the Security on the available markets.

A Trigger may not consider all markets.

6.3 Placing a Conditional Order Instruction

- (a) We are not obliged to accept a Conditional Order Instruction, for example, if there is market volatility, the security is too thinly traded, or the price for the Limit is too far from the price at which the security is currently traded.

- (b) We accept a Trigger only if it relates specifically to the same Security for which the Conditional Order Instruction is being placed. We do not accept the price of another stock as a Trigger or a Limit.
- (c) You must not place a Conditional Order Instruction for the purposes of manipulating or influencing the price of a Security, market rigging, insider trading, disruption of the market, threatening the integrity of the market, misleading or deceptive conduct concerning dealings in the security, or where you do not have proper authority to place a Conditional Order Instruction.
- (d) The range between the price in the Trigger and the price in the Limit must be acceptable to us if the Conditional Order Instruction has a Limit.
- (e) We accept a selling Conditional Order Instruction only for a Participant Sponsored Holding that is sponsored by us. You must nominate the Participant Sponsored Holding to which the Conditional Order Instruction applies. We apply the Conditional Order Instruction only to that holding.
- (f) A Conditional Order Instruction is not valid until we have told you that we have accepted it.

6.4 Maintaining your Conditional Order Instruction

- (a) You must ensure that you have sufficient securities and funds, either in your bank account, or your margin lending facility, to satisfy an order.
- (b) We apply the Conditional Order Instruction for a holding only to securities which are in that holding. We do not satisfy an order by taking securities from another holding.
- (c) A Conditional Order Instruction is valid for the day by the end of trading hours (Day order) or up to 90 days (Good till cancelled order).
- (d) A Conditional Order Instruction remains valid in the event of a trading halt, unless the Market Operator purges orders for the Security from the market.

6.5 Variation or cancellation of a Conditional Order Instruction

- (a) Conditional Order Instructions are taken on a 'best endeavours' basis. In the event of system failure, we may cancel Conditional Order Instructions.
- (b) We may cancel a Conditional Order Instruction if orders for the Security are purged from the market by the Market Operator, for example:
 - (i) the Security going ex-dividend;
 - (ii) the Security being subject to a reconstruction of capital such as a share split or consolidation; or
 - (iii) a rights-issue.
- (c) You may vary or cancel a Conditional Order Instruction. When you do, we may accept or reject it, and in doing so, we are entitled to rely on these Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions as if the variation or cancellation is a new Conditional Order Instruction.

- (d) We reserve the right to charge a fee for a cancellation or variation of a Conditional Order Instruction.
- (e) You must apply to us to reinstate a Conditional Order Instruction after it has been cancelled. When you apply, we will apply our rules and policies for accepting a new or varied Conditional Order Instruction. We may charge a fee for the reinstatement.

6.6 Implementing a Conditional Order Instruction

- (a) A Conditional Order Instruction is triggered when the Trigger for the Security occurs.
- (b) When the Conditional Order Instruction is triggered, we place an order for the Security on the market:
 - (i) at a price not below the Limit, in the case of a sale order, and
 - (ii) at a price not greater than the Limit in the case of a purchase order.
- (c) When the Conditional Order Instruction without a Limit is triggered, we place a market order for the Security.
- (d) If the order is triggered by events as a result of the closing price auction, the order may be placed on the market the following day, during the pre-open.
- (e) A Conditional Order Instruction will not be triggered by notional values or indicative prices.
- (f) We place a Conditional Order Instruction according to the time precedence of the Conditional Order Instruction, but we cannot guarantee the order in which it is placed onto the market.
- (g) In the event of system failure or malfunction, we may not have placed orders in accordance with the Conditional Order Instruction. Upon resumption from an outage, the system will not act on events that occurred during the system failure or malfunction.
- (h) The placement of an order on the market does not guarantee that the order will be filled.
- (i) The order remains on the market in accordance with our Trading Rules.
- (j) We use our best endeavours to place an order on the market following a Conditional Order Instruction being triggered. However, we reserve the right to review an order that results from a triggered Conditional Order Instruction and to refuse to place that order on the market, for example, if we consider that placing the order would not be consistent with a fair and orderly market. Also, it might not be possible for us to place an order on the market for example:
 - (i) where the basis for quotation for the Security has changed and you have not varied your Conditional Order Instruction;
 - (ii) where the Security has been subject to a trading halt and you have not varied your Conditional Order Instruction;
 - (iii) if we believe that your instructions are ambiguous, incomplete or unclear;

- (iv) where we believe that the instruction contravenes these Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions, the General Conditions of Trade, the Trading Rules or the General Terms and Conditions; or
- (v) where acting on the order is inconsistent with our legal obligations in respect of the maintenance of an orderly market.

6.7 General

- (a) You accept these Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions, or any variation of them, the first time you place a Conditional Order Instruction after receiving these Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions, or a notice of variation of these Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions.
- (b) Your obligations to us under these Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions are in addition to your obligations to us under:
 - (i) our General Conditions of Trade;
 - (ii) our Trading Rules; and
 - (iii) our General Terms and Conditions.
- (c) An order that is placed pursuant to a Conditional Order Instruction is subject to:
 - (i) these Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions;
 - (ii) our General Conditions of Trade;
 - (iii) our Trading Rules; and
 - (iv) our General Terms and Conditions.
- (d) You agree to use Conditional Order Instructions only in connection with your personal investment activities, and not use Conditional Order Instructions in connection with any business activities or to hold or monitor security trading for another person.
- (e) In addition to any other indemnities contained in this agreement, you indemnify us for any liability for loss or damage (including consequential loss, loss of profit and economic loss) that we incur as a result of your use of the Conditional Order Instruction in breach of these Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions, or in a manner, or for a purpose, not reasonably contemplated by us.
- (f) If you are not a consumer as defined in consumer protection laws, our liability for loss or damage is limited to resupplying the service to you or paying the costs of having the service resupplied to you and we will not be liable for loss (including consequential loss, loss of profit and economic loss) that you incur or suffer as a result of:
 - (i) delays in executing orders following a triggered Conditional Order Instruction;
 - (ii) system failure; or

- (iii) a triggered Conditional Order Instruction not being executed upon submission to the market.
- (g) If you are a consumer as defined in consumer protection laws, then to the extent permitted by those laws, our liability is limited to resupplying the service to you or paying the costs of having the service resupplied to you and we will not be liable for loss or damage (including consequential loss, loss of profit and economic loss) that you incur or suffer as a result of:
 - (i) delays in executing orders following a triggered Conditional Order Instruction;
 - (ii) system failure; or
 - (iii) a triggered Conditional Order Instruction not being executed upon submission to the market.
- (h) If there is more than one account holder, or there is more than one owner of a holding, you represent to us that all account holders and owners of the holding have read and that they accept:
 - (i) these Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions; and
 - (ii) any Risk Disclosure Statement (as defined below) for the particular Conditional Order Instruction facility, and that each account holder and owner of the holding agrees to act in accordance with these Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions.

6.8 Conditional Trading Risk Disclosure Statement

- (a) This Risk Disclosure Statement does not disclose all the risks associated with the use of a Conditional Order Instruction. It should not be relied upon as a complete explanation of the risks involved with using a Conditional Order Instruction. If you need further explanation of the risks associated with the use of a Conditional Order Instruction, you should seek appropriate professional advice.
- (b) While the intention of a Conditional Order Instruction is to limit losses to a certain amount, an Instruction may not always be effective because market conditions may make it impossible to execute a particular instruction.
- (c) Market conditions such as illiquidity may make it difficult or impossible for Futu to find sufficient counterparty volume to purchase/sell securities between the conditional Trigger price and the Limit price.
- (d) Action by a Market Operator such as the suspension of trading in certain securities may make it difficult or impossible to effect transactions so as to limit losses.
- (e) A Conditional Order Instruction does not make any provision for temporary falls or rises in security prices. Security prices may return to, exceed or fall short of the Trigger price at which Futu was instructed to buy or sell, within a short period of time.
- (f) It may not be possible for Futu to carry out your instruction, if to do so would, in the opinion of Futu or the regulatory authorities, result in illegal conduct such as market manipulation.

6.9 Trailing Buy and Trailing Sell Conditional Order Instruction

Trailing Buy and Trailing Sell conditional orders by nature are prone to share price movements. When using these conditional orders it is important to note that your trail start price may differ significantly from where your trail end condition is met. Further, as the fired conditional order is a market order, in a rapid moving market your conditional order may be executed at a significantly less favourable price than where your trigger condition is met.

6.10 Falling Sell Conditional Order Instruction

- (a) A Falling Sell Conditional Order Instruction uses the last traded price on the market to determine whether the Trigger price condition has been met.
- (b) A triggered Falling Sell Conditional Order Instruction does not guarantee that your sale order will be filled. The market price might fall or rise rapidly through the Trigger price and the Limit price.
- (c) There may not be a buyer or seller at your Limit price.
- (d) By using Conditional Order Instructions you acknowledge that:
 - (i) Futu does not provide any guarantee as to the effectiveness of a Conditional Order Instruction in limiting your losses or ensuring gains;

 - (ii) cause any Units then held by the custodian for your account to be transferred by the custodian on the Effective Date directly to you (if applicable); and
 - (iii) cancel any unexecuted transactions.

Schedule 3 - Risk Disclosure Statements

You (or, in this Schedule 2, the 'Client') should read these risk disclosure statements carefully. These statements form an integral part of this agreement. By executing this agreement, the Client acknowledges that it has received and read these statements and confirms its understanding of the risks which may arise in connection with the investments and transactions relating to the accounts.

The products and services whose risks are outlined within this Schedule are available only at the discretion of FUTU AU and may not necessarily be made available or offered in certain countries.

Nothing in this Schedule shall be considered or construed as an offer, invitation, solicitation or inducement by FUTU AU to enter into any particular investment or transaction nor as a holding out by FUTU AU that it is conducting business in activities involving such products or services.

These risk disclosure statements do not disclose or purport to disclose all the risks and relevant considerations in connection with any investment or transaction relating to the accounts. Risks described in this Schedule may not be applicable to every client. The Client should carefully consider whether entering into any particular investment or transaction is suitable for it, its operation, business and organisation in light of its financial resources, experience, objectives for engaging in the investments or transactions, ability to bear risk and other relevant circumstances. It is the Client's sole responsibility to make its own independent appraisal and investigation into the risks associated with the desired investment or transaction. The Client should refrain from entering into any particular investment or transaction unless the Client fully understands the risks involved and has obtained independent legal, tax, financial and other advice from its own advisers as it considers appropriate. FUTU AU is not, and shall not be deemed to be, the Client's financial advisor.

1 General risks in securities trading

This clause is not intended to be exhaustive and it is important that you also carefully read through the other sections of this Schedule that address more specific risks that may arise in respect of certain types of products.

There are various risks of a general nature associated with investing and transacting in securities. Different products involve different level of risks and in considering whether to trade or invest in securities generally, you should be aware of the following:

1.1 Risks Associated with Securities Trading

(a) Price fluctuation

The prices of securities (including but not limited to bonds or benefits of unit trust funds, mutual funds, or other collective investment schemes) fluctuate, sometimes dramatically. The price of a security may move up or down, and may fall against your interest and under some circumstances even become valueless. It is as likely that losses will be incurred, rather than profit made, as a result of buying and selling securities.

(b) Past performance not indicative of future performance

Any representation of past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance.

(c) Currency risks

Where investments involve exposure to foreign currencies, changes in rates of exchange may cause the value of the investments to fluctuate up or down.

(d) Emerging markets risks

Investments in emerging markets need careful and independent assessment by you of each investment and the risks (including without limitation sovereign risk, issuer risk, price risk, liquidity risk, legal and tax risks). Further, you should be aware that, while such investments can yield high gains, they can also be highly risky as the markets are unpredictable and there may be inadequate regulations and safeguards available to investors.

(e) Impact of commission, fees, and other charges

Commissions, fees, and other charges levied by FUTU AU or other intermediaries may reduce the overall quantum of your net profit or exacerbate the overall quantum of your net loss.

(f) Suspension or restriction of trading

Market conditions (e.g. illiquidity) and/or the operation of the rules of certain markets (e.g. the suspension of trading in any security because of price limits or trading halts) may increase the risk of loss by making it difficult or impossible to effect transactions or liquidate/offset positions.

(g) Transactions in other jurisdictions

Transactions on markets in other jurisdictions, including markets formally linked to the Australian market, may expose you to additional risks. Such markets may be subjected to rules that may offer different or diminished investor protection. Before entering into such trades, you should be aware of the rules relevant to the particular transactions.

(h) Deposited cash and property

You should familiarise yourself with the protection accorded to any money or other property which you deposit for domestic and foreign transactions, particularly in a firm's insolvency or bankruptcy. The extent to which you may recover your money or property may be governed by specific legislation or local rules. In some jurisdictions, property which had been specifically identifiable as your own will be pro-rated in the same manner as cash for purposes of distribution in the event of a shortfall.

(i) Risks of third party authorisations

There are substantial risks in allowing an authorised third party to trade or operate your account, and it is possible that instructions could be given by persons not properly authorized. You accept all of the risks of such an operation and irrevocably releases FUTU AU from all liabilities arising out of or in connection with such instructions, whether taken by FUTU AU or otherwise.

- (j) Risks of providing an authority to hold mail or to direct mail to third parties

If you provide FUTU AU with an authority to hold mail or to direct mail to third parties, it is important for you to promptly collect in person all contract notes and statements of your account and review them in detail to avoid the risk that any anomalies or mistakes may fail to be detected in a timely fashion.

1.2 Additional Risks Relating to Repos

- (a) The term 'repo' refers to a sale and repurchase transaction in securities. In a repo, the repo seller transfers title in the securities to the repo purchaser. The repo is in effect for a specific period, and at the end of the period the repo purchaser transfers title to equivalent securities (of the same issuer and type) to the repo seller.
- (b) The repo purchaser's obligation to transfer equivalent securities is usually secured against collateral. There is, accordingly, credit risk. Selling securities under a repo may also affect your tax position (you should seek independent advice on the issue).
- (c) As a result of selling securities under a repo the seller will cease to be the owner of them, although the seller will have the right to reacquire at future date equivalent securities (or in certain circumstances their cash value or the proceeds of redemption). However, except to the extent that the seller has received collateral, the seller's right to the repurchase of securities is subject to the risk of insolvency or other non-performance by the repo purchaser. Since the seller is not the owner of the securities during the period of the repo, the seller will not have voting rights nor will the seller directly receive dividends or other corporate actions although the seller will normally be entitled to a payment from the repo purchaser equivalent to the dividend the seller would otherwise have received and the repo purchaser will be required to account for the seller for the benefit of corporate actions.
- (d) Repos also entail counterparty default risk and operational risks such as the non-settlement or delay in settlement of instructions.

1.3 Risks of Trading in Exchange-Traded Structured Products ('Structured Products')

- (a) Risk of issuer default

In the event that a Structured Product issuer becomes insolvent or defaults, you will be considered as an unsecured creditor and will have no preferential claims to any assets held by the issuer. You should therefore pay close attention to the financial strength and credit worthiness of Structured Product issuers.

- (b) Risk of uncollateralised product

Uncollateralised Structured Products are not asset-backed. In the event of issuer bankruptcy, you can lose your entire investment. You should read the listing documents to determine if a product is uncollateralised.

- (c) Gearing risk

Structured Products such as warrants and Callable Bull/Bear Contracts ('CBBCs') are leveraged and can change in value rapidly according to the gearing ratio relative to the underlying assets. You should be aware that the value of a Structured Product may fall to zero resulting in a total loss of the initial investment.

(d) Expiry considerations

Structured Products have an expiry date after which the issue may become worthless. You should be aware of the expiry time horizon and choose a product with an appropriate lifespan for their trading strategy.

(e) Extraordinary price movements

The price of a Structured Product may not match its theoretical price due to outside influences such as market supply and demand factors. As a result, actual traded prices can be higher or lower than the theoretical price.

(f) Risks of foreign exchange

You are exposed to exchange rate risk when trading Structured Products with underlying assets not denominated in AUD. Currency rate fluctuations can adversely affect the underlying asset value, also affecting the Structured Product price.

(g) Risks of liquidity

Structured Product issuers may be required to appoint a market-maker/liquidity provider for each individual issue. The role of market-makers/liquidity providers is to provide two-way quotes to facilitate trading of their products. In the event that a market-maker/liquidity provider defaults or ceases to fulfil its role, you may not be able to buy or sell the product until a new market-maker/liquidity provider has been assigned. There is no guarantee that you will be able to buy or sell your Structured Products at your target price any time you wish.

2 Risks of trading in synthetic exchange traded funds

Unlike traditional exchange traded funds (ETFs), synthetic ETFs do not buy the assets in their benchmark. Instead, they typically invest in financial derivative instruments to replicate the benchmark's performance. Investments in synthetic ETFs are highly risky and not suitable to all. You must understand clearly and consider the following risks prior to the purchase of synthetic ETFs.

2.1 Market risks

ETFs are typically designed to track the performance of certain indices, market sectors, or group of assets such as stocks, bonds, or commodities. You are exposed to the political, economic, currency and other risks related to the ETF's underlying index/assets it is tracking. You must be prepared to bear the risk of loss and volatility associated with the underlying index/asset.

2.2 Risks of counterparties

Where a synthetic ETF invests in derivatives to replicate the index performance, you are exposed to the credit risk of the counterparties who issued the derivatives, in addition to the risks relating to the index. Further, potential contagion and concentration risks of the derivatives issuers should be taken into account (e.g. since derivative issuers are predominantly international financial institutions, the failure of one derivative counterparty of synthetic ETF may have a 'knock-on' effect on other derivative counterparties of the synthetic ETFs). Some synthetic ETFs have collateral to reduce the counterparty risk, but there may be a risk that the market value of the collateral has fallen substantially when the synthetic ETF seeks to realise the collateral.

2.3 Liquidity risk

There is no assurance that a liquid market exists for an ETF. A higher liquidity risk is involved if a synthetic ETF involves derivatives which do not have an active secondary market. Wider bid-offer spreads in the price of derivatives may result in losses. Therefore, they can be more difficult and costly to unwind early, when the instruments provide access to a restricted market where liquidity is limited.

2.4 Tracking error risk

There may be disparity between the performance of the ETFs and the performance of the underlying index due to, for instance, failure of the tracking strategy, currency differences, fees and expenses.

2.5 Trading at discounts or premiums

Where the index/market that the ETF tracks is subject to restricted access, the efficiency in unit creation or redemption to keep the price of the ETFs in line with its net asset value (NAV) may be disrupted, causing the ETF to trade at a higher premium or discount to its NAV. If you had bought an ETF at a premium, you may not be able to recover the premium in the event of termination.

2.6 Risks of foreign exchange

You are exposed to exchange rate risk when trading ETFs with underlying assets not denominated in AUD. Currency rate fluctuations can adversely affect the underlying asset value, also affecting the ETFs price.

3 Risks in relation to Funds

- (a) The Client understands that the following risk disclosure statements explain some general risks, but are not meant to be an exhaustive list of all possible risks, involved in the Client's investment or dealing in Funds. For specific risks associated with a particular Fund, the Client should refer to the relevant offering documents for details.
- (b) Investment in Funds involves risks and prior to investing, the Client should read the relevant constitutive documents, offering documents and other relevant documents of a particular Fund to understand its features, terms and risks. Before investing or dealing in a Fund, the Client should carefully consider whether that Fund is suitable having regard to the Client's investment experience, investment objectives, financial resources and other relevant circumstances.
- (c) The Client must also consider these risk disclosure statements together with those set out under the section titled 'General Risks in Securities Trading' above.

3.2 Variable returns contingent on performance of financial instruments

- (a) Funds are investment products and may involve derivatives. Funds are not equivalent to term deposits.
- (b) Whilst derivative instruments may be used in a Fund for hedging purposes, the risks remain that the relevant hedging instrument may not necessarily fully correlate to the investments in a Fund and accordingly, not fully reflect changes in the value of the investment, giving rise to potential net losses.
- (c) Some Funds may use financial derivatives instruments for investment purposes, which may involve embedded leverage. The use of financial derivatives instruments may expose the Client to additional risks including but not limited to volatility risk and counterparty risk. Fund manager(s) of a Fund may invest a substantial portion of the Funds' net assets in structured products, derivatives and non-investment grade debt securities. During adverse market conditions, you may suffer significant financial losses.
- (d) A Fund that is a hedge fund uses alternative investment strategies and the inherent risks are different and are not typically encountered in traditional funds.

3.3 Price fluctuation

- (a) The price of the Units of a Fund can and do fluctuate, sometimes dramatically. The value of and income from a Fund is not guaranteed and may move up or down and may even become valueless. There is an inherent risk that losses may be incurred rather than profits made as a result of buying and selling Units of a Fund. You may not get back the amount that you had initially invested. In the worst case scenario, the value of the Units of a Fund may be worth substantially less than the amount that you had invested (and in an extreme case could be worth nothing).
- (b) Past performance not indicative of future performance
- (c) Past performance of a Fund is not an indication of future performance. There can be no assurance that the investment objective and strategy of a Fund will be successfully achieved.

3.4 Market risks

A Fund that invests in certain markets and companies (e.g. emerging markets, commodity markets or smaller companies) may also involve a higher degree of risk and is usually more sensitive to price movements.

3.5 Charges and expenses

Deductions of charges and expenses mean that you may not get back the amount you invested.

3.6 Limits on redemption

- (a) Your right to redeem Units in a Fund may be restricted by certain circumstances (depending on the feature and terms of the Fund). In other words, there is a risk that Units in a Fund may be difficult to (purchase or) sell depending on those circumstances.

- (b) A Fund could contain Units that do not permit dealing every day. Investment in such funds will only be realisable on their respective dealing days. The appropriate market price of these investments can only be determined on the relevant Fund's dealing days.

3.7 Time lag

The Company will effect your orders as soon as practicable; however, the execution of such orders may not coincide with the dealing days stipulated in the relevant offering document of a Fund. Furthermore, before your order is placed by the Company with the relevant Fund manager for execution, the Company may aggregate and consolidate (either daily or from time to time) your order together with orders placed by the Company's other clients. There may be a discrepancy in the price or value of a Unit between when you place your order with the Company and when the order is executed by the relevant Fund manager.

3.8 Currency risks

An investment in a Fund that is not denominated in Singapore dollars is exposed to exchange risk fluctuations. Exchange rates may cause the value of the investment to fluctuate.

3.9 Differences in regulatory regimes

Units of a Fund held by the Company or any other person appointed by the Company as your nominee outside of Singapore are subject to the applicable laws and regulations of the relevant overseas jurisdiction. These overseas laws and regulations may differ from the laws and regulations in Singapore. As a result, you may not enjoy the same protection for those Units in a Fund as you would enjoy for the same Units in a Fund that are held in Singapore.

4 Risks in relation to bonds trading

Bonds are not an alternative to ordinary savings or time deposits. The price of bonds may fluctuate during its tenor and may even become valueless.

The Client understands that the following risk disclosure statements explain some general risks, but are not meant to be an exhaustive list of all possible risks, involved in the Client's investment or dealing in bonds. It is crucial to understand the specific risks mentioned in the relevant offering documents (if applicable) before investing.

4.1 Key Product Risks

Key risks include, but are not limited to, the ones listed below:

- (a) Credit risk

You assume the credit risk of the issuer and the guarantor (if applicable). Any changes to the credit rating of them will affect the price and value of the bonds. Bonds are subject to the risk of the issuer defaulting on its obligations, i.e. an issuer fails to make principal and interest payments when due. In the worst case scenario of a bankruptcy of the issuer/guarantor, you could risk losing the value of the entire investment. Credit ratings assigned by credit rating agencies do not guarantee the creditworthiness of the issuer.

(b) Liquidity risk

The bond may have limited liquidity and may not be actively traded and/or quoted by brokers in the market. As such:

- (i) the value of bond and/or indicative bid/offer price will depend on market liquidity and conditions which may not be available at all times;
- (ii) it may take longer or it may be impossible to sell the bond at prevailing market conditions; and
- (iii) the executable sale price may differ unfavourably by large amounts from the indicative bid price quoted.

(c) Currency risks

For bonds denominated in a foreign currency, there may be an exchange loss when converting the redemption amount back to the local or base currency.

(d) Interest rate risk

Bonds are more susceptible to fluctuations in interest rates and generally prices of bonds will fall when interest rates rise.

(e) Market risk

The value of investments may fluctuate due to changing political, legal and, economic conditions and changes in interest rates. This is common to all markets and asset classes. Your return may be substantially less than the initial investment.

4.2 Additional Risks for High-Yield Bonds

In addition to the risks listed above, high-yield bonds are subject to additional risks such as:

(a) Higher credit risk

Since high-yield bonds are typically rated below investment grade or are unrated, they are often subject to a higher risk of issuer default.

(b) Vulnerability to economic cycles

During economic downturns high-yield bonds typically fall more in value than investment grade bonds as (i) investors become more risk averse and (ii) default risk rises.

(c) Specific Risks

It is important to note that certain bonds may contain special features and risks that warrant special attention. These include:

(i) Perpetual bonds

Perpetual debentures do not have a maturity date, and the coupon payments pay-out depends on the viability of the issuer in the very long term, it may be deferred or even suspended subject to the terms and conditions of the issue. Furthermore, perpetual debentures are often callable and/or subordinated, and bear re-investment risk and/or subordinated bond risk, as detailed below.

(ii) Re-investment risk of callable bonds

If the bond is callable in which the issuer may redeem the bond before maturity, it is subject to re-investment risk. The yield received when re-investing the proceeds may be less favourable.

(iii) Subordinated bonds

Holders of subordinated debentures will bear higher risks than holders of senior debentures of the issuer due to a lower priority of claim in event of the issuer's liquidation. Subordinated debentures are unsecured and have lesser priority than that of an additional debt claim of the same asset. They usually have a lower credit rating than senior bonds. Your specific attention is drawn to the credit information of this product, including the respective credit rating of the issuer, the debenture and/or the guarantor, as the case may be.

(iv) Bonds with variable coupon/coupon deferral features

If the bonds contain variable and/or deferral of interest payment terms, then you would face uncertainty over the amount and time of the interest payments to be received.

(v) Bonds with extendable maturity date

If the bonds contain extendable maturity date terms, then you would not have a definite schedule of principal repayment.

(vi) Convertible or exchangeable bonds

Convertible or Exchangeable bonds are convertible or exchangeable in nature and the Client is subject to both equity and bond investment risk. They may additionally have a contingent write-down or loss absorption feature, meaning the bond may be written-off fully or partially or converted to common stock on the occurrence of a trigger event. These bonds generally absorb losses while the issuer remains a going concern. Before investing in bonds of this nature, you should pay extra attention to its features, the trigger events, the implications and consequences of such trigger events.

(vii) Multiple credit support providers

This refers to bonds with more than one guarantor. You should take into account matters such as the credibility of the guarantors, whether such guarantors have material operations and the credit support structure(s) involved. Under some credit support structures, the bondholders' rights may be subordinated to those of the issuer, the guarantors and/or other parties where an event of default were triggered.

(viii) Other/multiple credit support structures

This refers to bonds with keepwell deeds in place as a form of credit enhancement. Some of these bonds may also have credit support providers serving as guarantors. Keepwell deeds need to be individually assessed and could be structurally complex. They are not necessarily comparable to guarantees and are subject to much greater legal and regulatory uncertainty compared to guarantees. In particular, capital control laws in certain countries could heighten the risk that timely payments will not be made, even if there is a keepwell deed.

4.3 Risks of transaction in foreign jurisdictions

- (a) Transactions on markets in other jurisdictions, including markets formally linked to a domestic market, may expose you to additional risk. Such markets may be subject to regulation which may offer different or diminished investor protection. In particular, securities that are foreign listed securities and are held outside Australia are subject to the applicable laws and regulations of the relevant overseas jurisdiction that may differ from Australian law. Consequently, such securities may not enjoy the same protection as that conferred on securities received or held in Australia. Before you enter into a transaction, you should enquire about any rules relevant to such transactions, and comply with the same. There may be restrictions for foreign investors, repatriation of capital investments and profits and there may be withholding or additional forms of taxes.
- (b) You should only consider trading outside the Australian market if you fully understand the nature of the relevant foreign market and the extent of your exposure to risks. You should carefully consider whether such trading is appropriate for you in light of your experience, risk profile, and other relevant circumstances, and seek independent professional advice when you are in doubt. You should not rely on this information as a complete explanation of the risks of trading in foreign jurisdictions.

4.4 Risks related to algorithmic trading

FUTU AU may make available to clients a suite of various order types on its trading platform that may use computerized algorithms. These order types allow clients to input various conditions as part of their Instructions for Transactions to FUTU AU. FUTU AU's computerised routing systems will attempt to place such effect such Instructions into the market in accordance with the conditions set. Algorithmic order types range from standard limit orders to more complex strategies. The trading platform may require additional systems on the clients' part in order to function properly.

There are special characteristics and risks associated with algorithmic trading. You should understand these risks and determine whether algorithmic trading is appropriate in light of your objectives and experience:

- (a) Technical errors

Algorithmic trading can be effected when your systems, FUTU AU's systems or the Exchanges' systems are experiencing technical difficulties. Risks include possible delays or failures in (i) availability of your connection to FUTU AU's services and of FUTU AU's services to the relevant Exchange; (ii) the operation of databases and internal transfers of data; (iii) the provision of data feeds (accuracy of data and stability of data connections); (iv) possible hardware failures; (v) usage loads, bandwidth limitations, and other bottlenecks inherent in computerised and networked architectures; (vi) issues, disputes, or failures of third party vendors and other dependencies; and (vii) other general risks inherent in computer-based operations. Any of these could lead to delays or failures in order execution, incorrect order execution and other problems.

(b) Software and design flaws

All software is subject to inadvertent programming errors and bugs embedded in the code comprising that software. Algorithmic order types may contain logical errors in the code to implement them. Errors may exist in the data used for testing the algorithm or the applicable model of the market. Despite testing and monitoring, inadvertent errors and bugs may still cause algorithmic order types to fail or behave incorrectly.

(c) Market impact and events

Market conditions will impact the execution of algorithmic orders. Possible adverse market conditions include lack of liquidity, price swings, late market openings, early market closings, market chaos, and mid-day trading pauses, and other such disruptive events. The execution of an algorithm can itself have an impact on the market, including causing lack of liquidity or abrupt and unwarranted price swings.

(d) Losses

Losses can happen more quickly with electronic and algorithmic trading compared to other forms of trading. Any or all of the other risk factors could cause more significant trading losses when using algorithmic trading compared to other forms of trading.

5 Risks specific to initial public offerings

If the Offer Securities (as defined in Schedule 1) are denominated in a foreign currency (i.e. other than AUD) or in both AUD and a foreign currency, you are exposed to exchange rate risk and may suffer loss as a result of the fluctuations in exchange rates.

6 Risks related to biometric authentication

Biometric authentication is one of the ways to confirm an identification apart from user name and password. FUTU AU may offer biometric authentication as a means by which to identify you. By switching on this function, you will be able unlock your trading account and operate your account using biometric identification. By using the biometric authentication function, you agree that FUTU AU is authorised to use your biometric data for the purposes of providing products and services to you and acknowledge that you accept the following risks:

- (a) All biometric credentials stored on your device must be your own. If you store any other person's biometric credentials and/or allow any other person's biometric credentials to be stored on your device, you are responsible for all instructions and the resulting transactions made from the instructions on behalf of that other person.
- (b) The use of biometric authentication on a "Jail-broken" or "Rooted" device may induce system security risk, including but not limited to information leakage or fraudulent transactions.
- (c) The biometric authentication function may not be available in all instances and may not function as intended. Any unavailability or malfunction may be caused by many reasons, including but not limited to issues with your internet services provider or issues with your device. Futu shall not liable for any failure relating to the biometric authentication function.

7 Extended Trading Hours Risk Disclosure

You should consider the following points before engaging in extended hours trading. 'Extended hours trading' means trading outside of Regular Trading Hours.

Within Australia, Regular Trading Hours generally means the time between 10:00am - 4:00pm Australian Eastern Daylight Time (GMT +11:00), however this may vary depending on the operating rules of the relevant market operator and will vary in relation to international markets.

7.1 Risk of Lower Liquidity

Liquidity refers to the ability of market participants to buy and sell securities. Generally, the more orders that are available in a market, the greater the liquidity. Liquidity is important because with greater liquidity it is easier for investors to buy or sell securities, and as a result, investors are more likely to pay or receive a competitive price for securities purchased or sold. There may be lower liquidity in extended hours trading as compared to regular trading hours. As a result, your order may only be partially executed, or not at all.

7.2 Risk of Higher Volatility

Volatility refers to the changes in price that securities undergo when trading. Generally, the higher the volatility of a security, the greater its price swings. There may be greater volatility in extended hours trading than in regular trading hours. As a result, your order may only be partially executed, or not at all, or you may receive an inferior price when engaging in extended hours trading than you would during regular trading hours.

7.3 Risk of Changing Prices

The prices of securities traded in extended hours trading may not reflect the prices either at the end of regular trading hours or upon the opening the next morning. As a result, you may receive an inferior price when engaging in extended hours trading than you would during regular trading hours.

7.4 Risk of Unlinked Markets

Depending on the extended hours trading system or the time of day, the prices displayed on particular extended hours trading system may not reflect the prices in other concurrently operating extended hours trading systems dealing in the same securities.

7.5 Risk of News Announcements

Normally, issuers make news announcements that may affect the price of their securities after regular trading hours. Similarly, important financial information is frequently announced outside of regular trading hours. In extended hours trading, these announcements may occur during trading, and if combined with lower liquidity and higher volatility, may cause an exaggerated and unsustainable effect on the price of a security.

7.6 Risk of Wider Spreads

The spread refers to the difference in price between what price you can buy a security and at what price you can sell it. Lower liquidity and higher volatility in extended hours trading may result in wider than normal spreads for a particular security.

8 Foreign Securities Risk Disclosure

Investments in foreign securities involve certain risks that differ from the risks of investing in domestic securities including:

- (i) Adverse political, economic, social, or other conditions in a foreign country may make products issued in that country difficult or impossible to sell;
 - (ii) foreign markets may be subject to different regulations, and may be subject to rules which may offer different levels of investor protection than Australia;
 - (iii) foreign securities may not be subject to the same disclosure standards that apply to investment products listed for quotation or quoted on Australian exchanges;
 - (iv) it may be more difficult to obtain reliable information about some foreign securities;
 - (v) the costs of investing in some foreign markets may be higher than investing in domestic markets and may incur additional tax obligations in those foreign markets; and
 - (vi) investments in foreign securities are subject to currency fluctuations.

 - (iii) other open or unsettled buy orders.

2.5 Sell orders

- (a) We do not accept short selling orders.

3 Australian Conditional Order Instructions

3.1 Australian Conditional Order Instruction

- (a) We accept, administer and implement an Australian Conditional Order Instruction, or a variation or cancellation of an Australian Conditional Order Instruction, in accordance with the terms and conditions set out in this clause 3.1 – Australian Conditional Order Instruction (Australian Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions).
- (b) Australian Conditional Orders may not be available on all Futu Platforms through which you can trade.

3.2 Definitions

Australian Conditional Order Instruction means an instruction you give to us on a Futu Platform to place an order for a Security on an Australian domiciled market:

- (a) when the Trigger occurs; and
- (b) at market price or at a price in accordance with the Limit.

Limit means the minimum price at which we are instructed to sell, or the maximum price at which we are instructed to purchase, the Security under your Australian Conditional Order Instruction.

Security means a security or securities for which you have placed an Australian Conditional Order Instruction.

Trigger means criteria that are acceptable to us, which you nominate for your Australian Conditional Order Instruction, which, when satisfied, causes us to place an order for the Security on the available markets. A Trigger may not consider all markets.

3.3 Placing an Australian Conditional Order Instruction

- (a) We are not obliged to accept an Australian Conditional Order Instruction, for example, if there is market volatility, the security is too thinly traded, or the price for the Limit is too far from the price at which the security is currently traded.
- (b) We accept a Trigger only if it relates specifically to the same Security for which the Australian Conditional Order Instruction is being placed. We do not accept the price of another stock as a Trigger or a Limit.
- (c) You must not place an Australian Conditional Order Instruction for the purposes of manipulating or influencing the price of a Security, market rigging, insider trading, disruption of the market, threatening the integrity of the market, misleading or deceptive conduct concerning dealings in the security, or where you do not have proper authority to place an Australian Conditional Order Instruction.
- (d) The range between the price in the Trigger and the price in the Limit must be acceptable to us if the Australian Conditional Order Instruction has a Limit.
- (e) We accept a selling Australian Conditional Order Instruction only for a Participant Sponsored Holding that is sponsored by us. You must nominate the Participant

Sponsored Holding to which the Australian Conditional Order Instruction applies. We apply the Australian Conditional Order Instruction only to that holding.

- (f) An Australian Conditional Order Instruction is not valid until we have told you that we have accepted it.

3.4 Maintaining your Australian Conditional Order Instruction

- (a) You must ensure that you have sufficient securities and funds, either in your bank account, or your margin lending facility, to satisfy an order.
- (b) We apply the Australian Conditional Order Instruction for a holding only to securities which are in that holding. We do not satisfy an order by taking securities from another holding.
- (c) An Australian Conditional Order Instruction is valid for the day by the end of trading hours (Day order) or up to 90 days (Good till cancelled order).
- (d) An Australian Conditional Order Instruction remains valid in the event of a trading halt, unless the Market Operator purges orders for the Security from the market.

3.5 Variation or cancellation of a Australian Conditional Order Instruction

- (a) Australian Conditional Order Instructions are taken on a 'best endeavours' basis. In the event of system failure, we may cancel Conditional Order Instructions.
- (b) We may cancel a Conditional Order Instruction if orders for the Security are purged from the market by the Market Operator, for example:
 - (i) the Security going ex-dividend;
 - (ii) the Security being subject to a reconstruction of capital such as a share split or consolidation; or
 - (iii) a rights-issue.
- (c) You may vary or cancel a Conditional Order Instruction. When you do, we may accept or reject it, and in doing so, we are entitled to rely on these Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions as if the variation or cancellation is a new Conditional Order Instruction.
- (d) We reserve the right to charge a fee for a cancellation or variation of a Conditional Order Instruction.
- (e) You must apply to us to reinstate a Conditional Order Instruction after it has been cancelled. When you apply, we will apply our rules and policies for accepting a new or varied Conditional Order Instruction. We may charge a fee for the reinstatement.

3.6 Implementing a Conditional Order Instruction

- (a) A Conditional Order Instruction is triggered when the Trigger for the Security occurs.
- (b) When the Conditional Order Instruction is triggered, we place an order for the Security on the market:

- (i) at a price not below the Limit, in the case of a sale order, and
 - (ii) at a price not greater than the Limit in the case of a purchase order.
- (c) When the Australian Conditional Order Instruction without a Limit is triggered, we place a market order for the Security.
- (d) If the order is triggered by events as a result of the closing price auction, the order may be placed on the market the following day, during the pre-open.
- (e) An Australian Conditional Order Instruction will not be triggered by notional values or indicative prices.
- (f) We place an Australian Conditional Order Instruction according to the time precedence of the Conditional Order Instruction, but we cannot guarantee the order in which it is placed onto the market.
- (g) In the event of system failure or malfunction, we may not have placed orders in accordance with the Australian Conditional Order Instruction. Upon resumption from an outage, the system will not act on events that occurred during the system failure or malfunction.
- (h) The placement of an order on the market does not guarantee that the order will be filled.
- (i) The order remains on the market in accordance with our Australian Trading Rules.
- (j) We use our best endeavours to place an order on the market following an Australian Conditional Order Instruction being triggered. However, we reserve the right to review an order that results from a triggered Australian Conditional Order Instruction and to refuse to place that order on the market, for example, if we consider that placing the order would not be consistent with a fair and orderly market. Also, it might not be possible for us to place an order on the market for example:
 - (i) where the basis for quotation for the Security has changed and you have not varied your Australian Conditional Order Instruction;
 - (ii) where the Security has been subject to a trading halt and you have not varied your Australian Conditional Order Instruction;
 - (iii) if we believe that your instructions are ambiguous, incomplete or unclear;
 - (iv) where we believe that the instruction contravenes these Australian Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions, the General Conditions of Trade, the Australian Trading Rules or the General Terms and Conditions; or
 - (v) where acting on the order is inconsistent with our legal obligations in respect of the maintenance of an orderly market or any legal and regulatory obligations applicable to us under domestic or international laws.

3.7 General

- (a) You accept these Australian Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions, or any variation of them, the first time you place an Australian Conditional Order

Instruction after receiving these Australian Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions, or a notice of variation of these Australian Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions.

- (b) Your obligations to us under these Australian Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions are in addition to your obligations to us under:
 - (i) our General Conditions of Trade;
 - (ii) our Australian Trading Rules; and
 - (iii) our General Terms and Conditions.
- (c) An order that is placed pursuant to an Australian Conditional Order Instruction is subject to:
 - (i) these Australia Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions;
 - (ii) our General Conditions of Trade;
 - (iii) our Australian Trading Rules; and
 - (iv) our General Terms and Conditions.
- (d) You agree to use Australian Conditional Order Instructions only in connection with your personal investment activities, and not use Australian Conditional Order Instructions in connection with any business activities or to hold or monitor security trading for another person.
- (e) In addition to any other indemnities contained in this agreement, you indemnify us for any liability for loss or damage (including consequential loss, loss of profit and economic loss) that we incur as a result of your use of the Australian Conditional Order Instruction in breach of these Australian Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions, or in a manner, or for a purpose, not reasonably contemplated by us.
- (f) If you are not a consumer as defined in consumer protection laws, our liability for loss or damage is limited to resupplying the service to you or paying the costs of having the service resupplied to you and we will not be liable for loss (including consequential loss, loss of profit and economic loss) that you incur or suffer as a result of:
 - (i) delays in executing orders following a triggered Australian Conditional Order Instruction;
 - (ii) system failure; or
 - (iii) a triggered Australian Conditional Order Instruction not being executed upon submission to the market.
- (g) If you are a consumer as defined in consumer protection laws, then to the extent permitted by those laws, our liability is limited to resupplying the service to you or paying the costs of having the service resupplied to you and we will not be liable for loss or damage (including consequential loss, loss of profit and economic loss) that you incur or suffer as a result of:

- (i) delays in executing orders following a triggered Australian Conditional Order Instruction;
 - (ii) system failure; or
 - (iii) a triggered Australian Conditional Order Instruction not being executed upon submission to the market.
- (h) If there is more than one account holder, or there is more than one owner of a holding, you represent to us that all account holders and owners of the holding have read and that they accept:
- (i) these Australian Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions; and
 - (ii) any Risk Disclosure Statement (as defined below) for the particular Australian Conditional Order Instruction facility, and that each account holder and owner of the holding agrees to act in accordance with these Australian Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions.

3.8 Australian Conditional Trading Risk Disclosure Statement

- (a) This Risk Disclosure Statement does not disclose all the risks associated with the use of an Australian Conditional Order Instruction. It should not be relied upon as a complete explanation of the risks involved with using an Australian Conditional Order Instruction. If you need further explanation of the risks associated with the use of an Australian Conditional Order Instruction, you should seek appropriate professional advice.
- (b) While the intention of an Australian Conditional Order Instruction is to limit losses to a certain amount, an Instruction may not always be effective because market conditions may make it impossible to execute a particular instruction.
- (c) Market conditions such as illiquidity may make it difficult or impossible for Futu to find sufficient counterparty volume to purchase/sell securities between the conditional Trigger price and the Limit price.
- (d) Action by a Market Operator such as the suspension of trading in certain securities may make it difficult or impossible to effect transactions so as to limit losses.
- (e) An Australian Conditional Order Instruction does not make any provision for temporary falls or rises in security prices. Security prices may return to, exceed or fall short of the Trigger price at which Futu was instructed to buy or sell, within a short period of time.
- (f) It may not be possible for Futu to carry out your instruction, if to do so would, in the opinion of Futu or the regulatory authorities, result in illegal conduct such as market manipulation.

3.9 Trailing Buy and Trailing Sell Australian Conditional Order Instruction

Trailing Buy and Trailing Sell conditional orders by nature are prone to share price movements. When using these conditional orders, it is important to note that your trail start price may differ significantly from where your trail end condition is met. Further, as the fired conditional order is a market order, in a rapidly moving market your conditional order may be executed at a significantly less favourable price than where your trigger condition is met.

3.10 Falling Sell Australian Conditional Order Instruction

- (a) A Falling Sell Australian Conditional Order Instruction uses the last traded price on the market to determine whether the Trigger price condition has been met.
- (b) A triggered Falling Sell Australian Conditional Order Instruction does not guarantee that your sale order will be filled. The market price might fall or rise rapidly through the Trigger price and the Limit price.
- (c) There may not be a buyer or seller at your Limit price.
- (d) By using Australian Conditional Order Instructions you acknowledge that:
 - (i) Futu does not provide any guarantee as to the effectiveness of an Australian Conditional Order Instruction in limiting your losses or ensuring gains;
 - (ii) you accept without limitation all risks associated with the use of an Australian Conditional Order Instruction;
 - (iii) you have read and accept the Australian Conditional Order Instruction Terms and Conditions and the Conditional Trading Risk Disclosure Statement; and
 - (iv) Futu recommends you seek appropriate professional advice before using an Australian Conditional Order Instruction.
